Community

The Kubernetes community – users, contributors, and the culture we've built together – is one of the biggest reasons for the meteoric rise of this open source project. Our culture and values continue to grow and change as the project itself grows and changes. We all work together toward constant improvement of the project and the ways we work on it.

We are the people who file issues and pull requests, attend SIG meetings, Kubernetes meetups, and KubeCon, advocate for its adoption and innovation, run `kubectl get pods`, and contribute in a thousand other vital ways. Read on to learn how you can get involved and become part of this amazing community.

SIGs and Working Groups

Most community activity is organized into Special Interest Groups (SIGs), time bounded Working Groups, and the community meeting.

SIGs follow these guidelines although each of these groups may operate a little differently depending on their needs and workflow.

Each group's material is in its subdirectory in this project.

When the need arises, a new SIG can be created

#office-hours

meauses 9:08 AM hi all, watching the live stream from the Netherlands with my 1.5 year old daughter ;D

Akshit Jain 9:08 AM Question: I have a cassandra service over Dcos currently running in production. I am planning to migrate to kubernetes. Is there any community driven reliable Cassandra-kubernetes operator?

Twari 9:08 AM Hi Team,

Aaron Layfield 9:09 AM joined #office-hours.

Jorik 9:10 AM Is there a way to access control plane Prometheus metrics between different managed environments? I'm able to retrieve apiserver metrics easily, but unable to reach the scheduler, etcd & controller manager
